ISSUE 18 - AUGUST 2009

Reflect. Reconnect. Celebrate.

Days seem to run so fast as we come again to the most awaited time in Muslim Faith, RAMADAN. We celebrate this most significant occasion in remembrance of the time when the Qur'an was revealed to Prophet Mohammed to serve as a guide to in judging what is good and what is evil. This time is a calling for "taqwa" or self-restraint -- a guarding of tongues, hands and hearts from anything that will make a person unworthy of the goodness of Allah.

Ramadan is a time to reflect, reconnect, and celebrate.

Reflect – This is a season for people to reflect on their lives and evaluate how well they have lived in accordance to their faith. Depriving themselves from fleshly desires through fasting makes them closer to the Creator and Sustainer. This presents an opportunity for them to realign and recommit themselves to living more fruitful and meaningful lives. Praying, Reading and Reciting the Qur'an, and Giving to Charity are most observed during this season.

Reconnect – This is also the period when family and friends get together and spend more time enjoying one another's company. This is the time when food is most abundantly shared. Ramadan is not only focused on food though, parents usually go on shopping sprees and children find ways to have their own fun and entertainment.

Celebrate – Ramadan is a time to rejoice for the revelation that is Qur'an. This is the occasion when shopping malls are decorated with festive designs and shopping is at its peak. People rush to stores to purchase items they will need for dinners they have planned to last until sunrise. Though adjustments on timing are made, this is likewise a season when business establishments are on boom. Shopping centers are open until late at night just to accommodate people eager to find the best deals and bargains.

Since this is a time of spiritual preparation, we prepared this issue to be one of the best we can offer our readers, advertisers, clients, friends and supporters.

We at Pinoylink will surely help you find the best Ramadan destinations. We will direct you to places where you can have time to Reflect, Reconnect and Celebrate on this most awaited season. We will link you to the best deals you can find in all of Bahrain, such as establishments that can offer the biggest discounts and great prizes.

What else can you ask for? Reflect, Reconnect, and Celebrate this season with us in Pinoylink!
